CORPORATE OFFICERS

Reno Contracting has built facilities that rival the most advanced in the country—we know that the success of our team is built upon the combined achievements of its individuals.

MATTHEW J. RENO
Founder / Chief Executive Officer

Matt earned his Bachelor's degree in Business Administration from the University of San Diego in 1980, while he worked as an apprentice and journeyman carpenter. Reno Contracting, Inc. first started as a partnership called MQ Construction, but in May 1993, the firm's name took its present form. As Founder/CEO owner of Reno Contracting, Inc., Matt originally focused on specializing in concrete tilt-up construction and the company has since expanded to multi-story, steel-frame buildings, complex tenant improvements and laboratory facilities. Under Matt's guidance, the company has developed strong relationships and a loyal client base, which includes Kilroy Realty Corporation, Cisterra Development, Sudberry Properties, AMN Healthcare, Marriott Hotels, Invitrogen, Diversa, and many others.

Philanthropic endeavors are important to Matt and Reno Contracting, so he gives generously to his favorite local charities: The Warrior Foundation, Big Brothers and Sisters of San Diego County, Navy League/Homefront San Diego, YMCA of San Diego, American Heart Association, Child Abuse Prevention Foundation, Armed Services YMCA, Multi-Cultural Contractors Association and many others. For instance, the Annual Reno Contracting Charity Golf Tournament raises money for the "Warrior Foundation" helping the wounded military coming back from Iraq and Afghanistan.

As the CEO, devoting many hours to the critical business strategy for Reno Contracting it is equally important to Matt that he balance his career with his family and personal life. His personal philosophy is, "You need to figure out what you want to be and then be the best at it."

WALTER J. FEGLEY
President

Born and raised in the greater Philadelphia area, Walt attended Kutztown University and Delaware Community College. Walt started in construction in 1971, working for a commercial masonry and concrete contractor. He then moved to Colorado in 1973 to become a masonry and concrete contractor. In 1976, Walt joined the Peace Corps, in West Africa, building remote teacher housing and rural schools for agriculture training of local communities. In 1979, he was hired by the World Bank as assistant coordinator of a countrywide school construction program and then returned to the U.S. in 1982. Shortly thereafter, Walt began working on the west coast until an injury in 1985 led him to change his career focus. Walt returned to school and started his career in commercial construction as an estimator. In 1989, he joined Matt Reno to assist with the start-up of Reno Contracting, Inc. Presently, Walt is the President of Reno Contracting, overseeing the company's operations and a team of 50 employees.

Walt has been a member of the Association of Professional Estimators, having served on the board of directors. Walt is currently on the Board for the Associated General Contractor's San Diego Chapter and is the chairman for the AGC Green Committee. Walt is LEED certified and heads up Reno's LEED/Green team. Walt serves on the East County YMCA Board of Directors and is a member of the San Diego Rotary, while also being involved with his church community. He enjoys hunting, fishing and playing guitar, but delights mostly in being a devoted husband and father to his two children.
